H'ART Museum Grand Café

H'ART Museum Grand Café, located on the first floor, is a wonderful place where you can enjoy a home-made lunch or a delicious drink during the day before, during or after a visit to the museum.

The Grand Café also supports all culinary activities for your business meeting or event. This atmospheric place is also available for private receptions, during the day but also in the evening. A unique place in Amsterdam where you can enjoy a delicious dinner or festive drinks with larger groups.

Church Hall

The most beautiful location on the Amstel, the Church Hall can be used for your reception, walking dinner or seated dinner. The Church Hall is available after opening hours of the museum after approval of the management.

Regents & Regency

The Regents room and the Regency room are available for an elegant, small and intimate dinner or a lavishly decorated reception for up to 40 guests in one of the most beautiful dining rooms in Amsterdam. The Regents room has beautiful views of the Amstel River and Nieuwe Herengracht, while the Regency room faces the Amstel and Nieuwe Prinsengracht.

The Protestant community provided money so that the Amstelhof could be set up. This was initially only an old women's home but later also opened to men. The women and men had to be strictly separated in the beginning. The men stayed in the Amsterdam wing and the regents (who took care of the men's side and therefore, also took care of the financial part of that wing) were in the Regents room.

Courtyard

During the day, an oasis of calmness, as well as a place to stay for visitors, but outside opening hours, available on request for your event in combination with use of the rooms of H'ART Museum. The courtyard is ideal for receptions for large groups, from packed lunches to chic dinners. The design of the garden is by Michael van Gessel. The three old chestnut trees are joined by four newly planted wingnut trees.
